Youth is in constant search of New Horizons . . .

Youth . . . In Search of New Horizons

The nature of youth is to challenge new concepts. Youth endeavors to understand old ways and traditions in order to mold values into solid convictions. Constantly testing, probing, and often penetrating, youth tries the patience of society, while entering into new realms of thought. Curiosity stirs youth to question "why". The quest for answers goes on In Search Of New Horizons.

Our search goes on . . . in the halls with the new student opening his first locker . . . in the classroom as the pupil does his first chemical analysis . . . in debate, discovering ideas and attitudes different from his own . . . in the library, experiencing new adventures in read . . . in the home, doing tomorrow's assignment . . . in projects as the homecoming In all our actions, we are In Search of New Horizons.

EULOGY

“He was truly a great man.” Mr. Lewis F. Witham, principal, administrator, teacher and friend, had served us in a long term capacity. With devotion to the youth of the school and deep, sincere interest in his students, Mr. Witham helped form the minds and character of all within his realm. Stalwart in his own beliefs, but with a unique understanding of human dignity, he listened to the hopes and aspirations of his kids. Believing in the integrity of the student, he allowed an individual to approach his own horizon, and where the student failed, he let the individual try anew. With inexhaustible patience, he gave students a second, a third, and even a fourth chance. Thus, he scanned the horizon and viewed the greatest long range benefits for the student body.

Ardently, Mr. Witham looked toward the future and planned for the future . . . he visualized Gavit's potential in its total frame and prepared us with guides in our search . . . He has journeyed through life and has met his new horizons . . . to justify his trust, we must work toward our goals with the same fervor.

CONCERN for "his" students was evident in Mr. Witham's face as he listened to Mr. Earl Freuhling relate an incident. Pride and interest marked

Witham Dedication Reflects Gladiator Spirit

HIS ROLE as an administrator was in coordination with assistant principal, Mr. William Sippel.

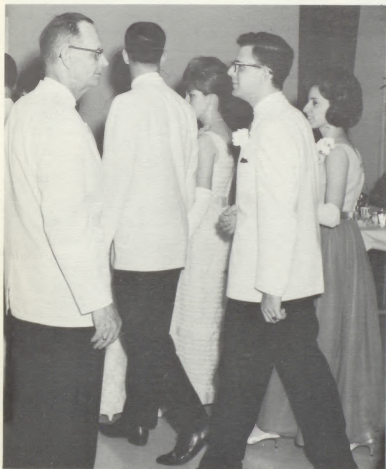

Mr. Lewis F. Witham, principal of Gavit School, passed away shortly before midnight on Saturday, October 28. He had been Gavit's principal since the school's opening in 1960.

Mr. Witham's entire life was devoted to education. After gaining Bachelor's and Master's degrees at Indiana University, he taught at Mentone and La-Porte. He then began his 41-year association with the Hammond Public Schools, teaching first at Washington and then at Hammond High. In 1947 he was named principal of Wilson School, and 13 years later became the first principal of Gavit School.

Mr. Witham had seen only four classes graduate from his school at his passing, but made innumerable accomplishments in that short time. Every Gavit institution and tradition was based upon his approval, and many of them could never have existed without his active support.

Mr. Lewis Witham was an acknowledged friend at all school activities. Participation in class projects was typical of Mr. Witham and his wife.

ATTENDANCE at prom festivities widened Mr. Witham's social contact with students.

ACQUAINTANCE with the students' parents enabled Mr. Witham to achieve many educational goals.

Sights, Memories, Mark Washington Trip

TAKING one last glimpse, wearied students are awed that they managed to ascend the Washington Monument via its 899 stairs.

ABSORBING United States legislative history, students are fascinated by John Q. Adams' acoustical trick, whereby the opposition's whispered plans could be overheard.

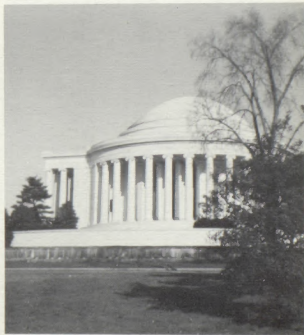

As a distinguishing finale to a high school travelog, Gavitt seniors joined 12th grade classes from the Hammond school system and embarked on the annual Washington D.C. - New York trip October 24. Departure on the Erie-Lackawana was dismal only from the weather view; spirits weren't dampened by the rain, nor cramped by sharing quarters with 150 students. Upon arrival at Washington D.C., Hammond travelers became official tourists: accommodations and meals were provided and guided bus tours taken to the Washington Monument, the White House, Memorials, Arlington Cemetery, and Smithsonian Institute. Every minute of the three day stay was filled with new sights, yet there was a free night for sightseers to explore Georgetown's discotheque's or revisit a favorite memorial.

The evening of October 27 was spent on the New York bound train. The following day a tour to such famous New York spots as Chinatown, Broadway, the United Nations, the Statue of Liberty and "toidy-toid and toid" street gave way to Radio City Music Hall's first run hit "Wait Until Dark," preceded by a show of singers and the renown Rockettes. Twenty minutes after the show, the masses converged on Greenwich Village's Macdougall street buying beads, poster, and buttons.

Sunday was unscheduled, enabling trippers to bid good-bye to a thrilling week before boarding the returning train to Hammond.

WATCHING ON-FIELD ACTION are Coach George Smith and Steve Wertheimer. Coach John Quinn checks yardage.

Blazing field lights, cheering fans, returning alumni and an unsuppressed show of spirit set the scene for Gavit's 1967 Homecoming. The night was complete after the Gladiators proved victorious over Clark, 7-0.

Highlights of halftime activities included awarding trophies for the best floats in the parade. Winning the trophy in the class division was the Junior Class with their theme, "Watch Clark Run Out of Gas". Adding to the excitement of the evening was the coronation of Homecoming queen, Peg Monzulla, escorted by Joe Kmiec. Her court included Liz Parker, Lynn Knutson, Sue Daughtery, Sue Bartnik.

Concluding the festivities of Homecoming was a victory sock hop sponsored by the Student Council, featuring the music of "Oscar and the Majestics".

CAPACITY CROWD of enthusiastic Gladiators cheer triumphantly during Basketball Homecoming in January. Despite high spirit the Morton

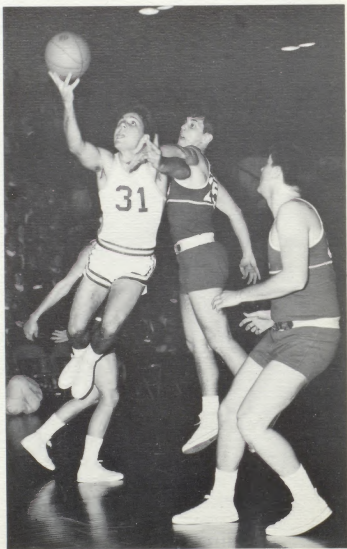

Governors squeaked by the Glads defenses to win.

Game and Coronation Spark Glad Rivalry

Linn Knutson was crowned Queen of the Basketball Homecoming, January 5. The festivities found Linn, escorted by fellow junior Tom Linnemeier, reigning over a court consisting of seniors Karen Bossinger, with escort Steve Wertheimer; Shirley Mulvihill, accompanied by Mike Winkler; and Liz Parker, with Ron Mercer. The halftime program was conducted by senior cheerleader Sue McPhillips. Basketball co-captains Rick Biancardi and Tom McKay participated in the crowning ceremony and presented a bouquet of roses to the queen.

Not all was joyful for the Gladiators, however, as a big Morton squad stopped the Gavit five, in an exciting, hard-fought game. After the game many Morton fans joined hundreds of Gavit students at the Pep Club sponsored Homecoming Dance. In her first "official" role, Queen Linn presided over the dance.

A Night to Remember themes GHS Prom

AMONG COUPLES signing in before entering Camelot are Tom Farris and Debbie Haywood.

Amidst medieval castle walls, an elaborate throne, various entertainment and dancing couples, "A Night to Remember" themed the 1967 Prom. Friday, May 19, the Gavitt gymnasium was converted into a setting from Camelot to provide prom goers with an atmosphere of old.

Providing dance music from nine to twelve were "The Diplomats". During intermission coronation ceremonies, Liz Parker was announced Prom queen. The queen's reign began when the royal couple led the Grand March.

After a midnight supper, further entertainment was presented by Wes Harrison, "Mr. Sound Effects". After-prom festivities included a livelier group, "The Gents". Bringing the evening to an end was a breakfast of coffee and doughnuts after which couples went home to prepare for a day at the beach.

Parents Review Student Classes, Schedules

ENCOUNTERING typical difficulties, a mother tries to open locker.

Parents were given an opportunity to relive school days once again on "Back to School Night", PTA program for September. Though none of the parents were Gavit Alumni, interest in the school's operation was nonetheless high, as evidenced by the fine attendance. Following shortened schedules, college graduates shared the confusion of newly enrolled seventh graders in trying to find rooms, understand schedules, and opening tricky GHS locks. Once at classes, parents heard summaries of class activities, met teachers, and discussed the work of their children. Unlike students, however, parents snacked in the cafeteria during study halls.

ACADEMICS

STUDENTS EN MASSE stare in bewilderment and apprehension at driver education class lists. Hundreds of students take part in the program which is offered only during the summer session.

Summer School Draws Credit Seekers

JOINING THROGS in the hall. Carla Ellis and Debbie Foster proceed to the next class on their agenda of summer courses.

Getting ahead in studies, catching up on needed credits and contacting friends during the summer provided incentive for 550 students enrolled in Gavitt's 1967 summer school.

Classes began June 16 and continued for eight weeks. Because of the time shortage classes were accelerated and main points of subjects and individual studying were stressed.

Academic classes including English, Math, History, and Science met during the morning and Driver's Education continued classes into the afternoon. Twenty-one faculty members participated in the summer program.

Among summer activities was the trip made by the 60 band and drill team members to Camp Betz. Departing on August 20, the students began a week-long "workshop" marching on an average of four to five hours daily. Recreational activities included canoeing, swimming and volleyball.

VUEWING THE VERBRAE and rib cage of a human scale model, anatomists, Mike Merrick, Marsha Milo, compare the physiology of cat bone structures. Comparative Anatomy associates resemblances in all animal phylums. By learning 50 muscle activities and locations in cat specimens, anatomists become aware of the composition of vertebrates with similar muscle formations.

New Biology Studies

Biology programs reflected changes that have taken place in this branch of science within the past decade. Students enrolled in the standard biology program found laboratory work to be increasing in the course, more closely resembling the B.S.C.S. course of study. The latter program in its fourth year put heavy emphasis on dissections and experimentation. Classes also stressed ecology, the study of relationships between organisms and their environment more strongly than previous methods.

Economic Biology, dealt with the importance of biological study to the contemporary economic system. Applications were found in fields as agriculture, rubber production, and even such currently controversial topics as pollution control.

A new approach was evident in the program of advanced biological courses. The rapidly developing field of biochemistry was included in the curriculum, evidencing the increasing correlation between the two traditional branches of science.

PHYSICAL MOVEMENTS of live mice are examined by students in Miss Frances Kasparek's biology class.

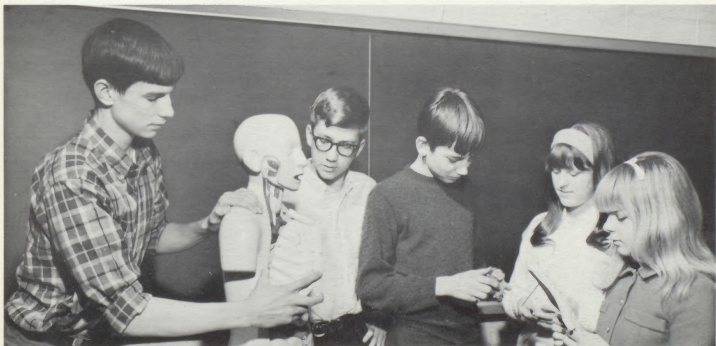

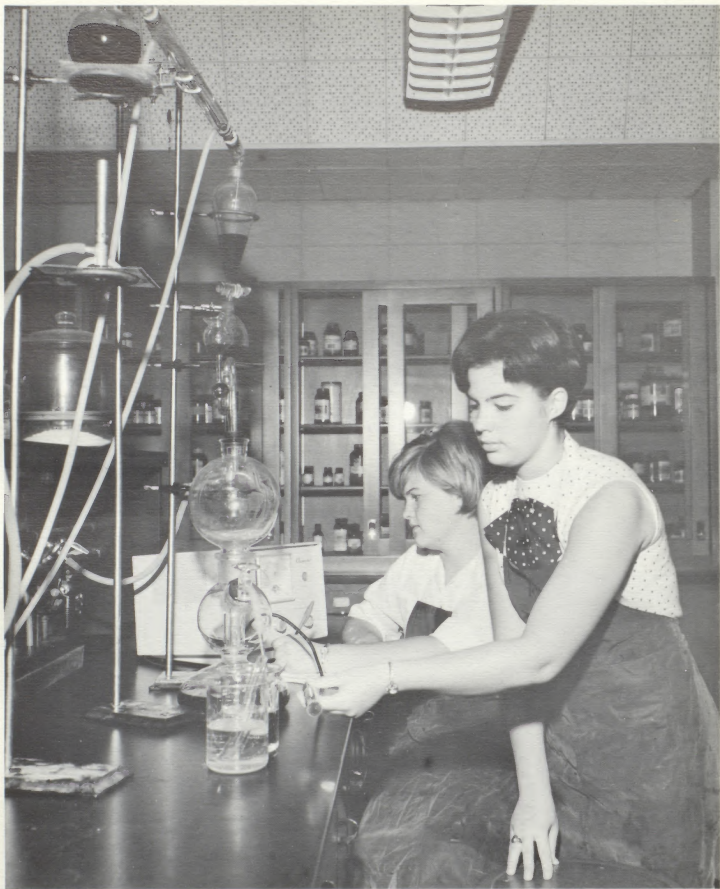

REMOVING SUPERFICIAL skin and muscle layers, body organs become visible for investigation. Miss Frances Kasperek orally quizzes Kay Dycus, Cindy Hines, and Kay McLaughlin on 15 organs, their functions, and their effects on body metabolism. Instrumented fingers probe the naked catalus intrals for exposed tapeworm after removal of muscle skin, and final layer of bone.

TRACING THE digestive tract, from esophagus through to the stomach, students in Health and Safety class study the effects of pancreatic juices and enzymes.

USING GEIGER counter. Chemistry II students Marta Horn and Annette Shea check suspected "hot" solution for radioactivity.

Social Sciences Offer Individual Insight

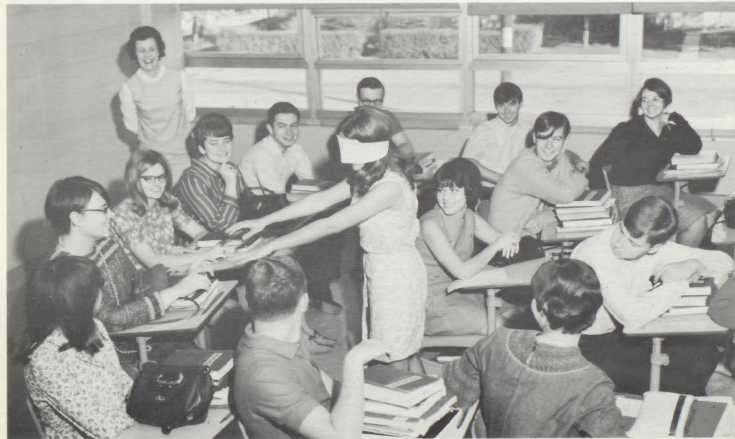

COMPARING SOCIAL problems of eastern and western civilizations. Steve Wertheimer leads a discussion concerning race regulations.

Unusual ways of life, as practiced by the Hopi and Dobu cultures, served as models for Sociology students' attempts to discover what elements are necessary for an ordered society to function. Different ethical systems assessed the relationship of a culture's moral standards and its social stability. Classes read Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby, gaining insight into social structures of American life in the twenties. By semester's end, students were applying their understanding of interpersonal relationships not only to such major national problems as slums and juvenile delinquency, but to community and school affairs.

Psychology students were faced with multitudes of oddly shaped geometric figures, sinister inkblots, and complex syllogism, as they tested themselves with a battery of psychological examinations. Subjects dealt with familiar concepts and terms, such as personality traits, I.Q. and daydreaming. Less familiar were projective behavior, sublimated and repressed desires and identification crises.

EXPERIMENTING in judging distance Liz Parker walks down a

Oriental Idioms Challenge Adept Linguists

Engaged in the study of the only classical language offered at Gavit, Latin students studied works of Ovid, Caesar, and Cicero. Scholars found their English vocabularies and grammar skills greatly aided by the study of this "dead" language.

German students developed fluency by reading German novels after a year's training in grammar. A suspense story, Emil and the Detective, kept second-year students busy utilizing their skills and understanding.

"Margot et mon Oncle," two film characters, taught French pupils grammar and geography simultaneously. French classes at all levels also actively participated by writing and performing own dialogues.

Spanish classes also enjoyed visual aids, watching "Juany Maria" flicks. As in French classes, skits were frequently employed as well as dialog recitation prompted by proper syllabification on tapes.

Russian students at last found company in their struggles with a new alphabet as Mandarin Chinese was offered for the first time. Both groups used college texts to study these languages. Other sources were used to gain understanding of the peoples of these two giant and ancient lands.

CHINESE enthusiasts delve into one facet of Oriental life by learning to eat with chopsticks. Miss Margaret Fitzgerald demonstrates correct way to hold utensils as class members practice her teachings.

Reading, Speech Accentuate Individuality

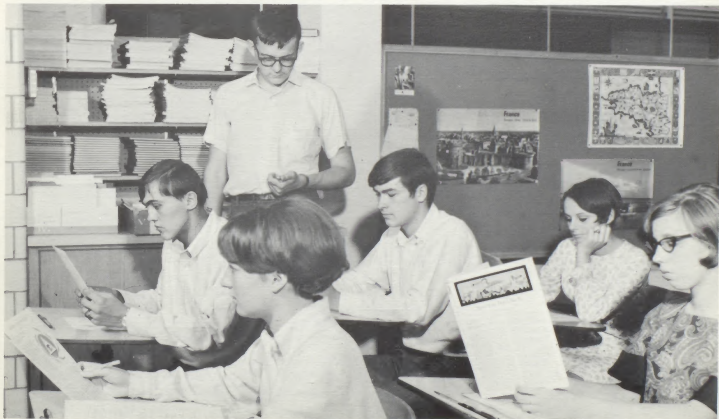

DEVELOPMENTAL reading teacher, Mrs. Eleanor Rainey, explains the use of reading skill booklets to her class.

ORATOR, Linda Hansen, emphasizes her point with use of facial expression and hand gestures during an address in Speech I.

READING RATE is clocked by timer, Craig Muir, as his developmental reading classmates strive for speed and accuracy.

Special Program Broadens English Scope

English Department broadened its program in a continuing attempt to meet the changing needs of GHS students. Some students, choosing to take four years of General English to meet state requirements, had an integrated program of grammar, composition, and both classical and contemporary English and American literature.

Upperclassmen could elect the College Preparatory course in their last two years. Students covered subjects ranging from phonetic influences of Old English on the modern American dialect to the influence of Rousseau on English romanticists.

Selected juniors took part in yet another accelerated program. Combining normal junior and senior schedules, class of '69 students read works representing both English and American literature, including Hamlet and Our Town.

Special courses included developmental reading, where students used rate-builders, and "silent" movies to increase reading speed and comprehension. In World Literature, students perused the writings from countrys throughout the world. Highlights of the courses included such varied works as Dostoyevski's Crime and Punishment and Oriental scriptures such as the Rig-Veda. A seventh-semester course, English Composition, enabled prospective college students to develop their talents writing themes, and essays by utilizing writing techniques of definition, example, comparison and contrast, and illustration.

Future news editors and columnists could develop their skills in Journalism course. After examining various methods used by mass communication media, students could endeavor to make layouts, write copy, edit, or reporting on the staff of either Futura or Scroll for the second semester.

PUNNING SHAKESPEARE'S WILL. Mary Ellen Masleid comments that it was free, but Mr. Larry Wray answers with a typical smirk. "Well, he bequeathed his second best bed to his wife."

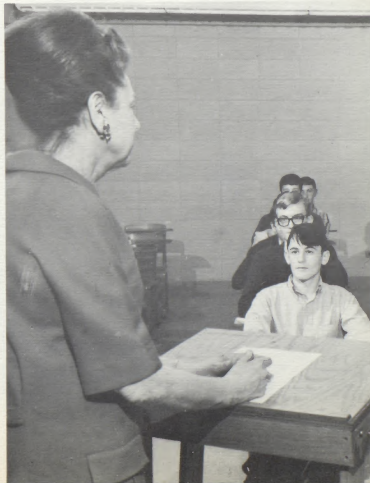

COLLECTING INFORMATION from nation wide newspapers. Journalism classes study add layouts and item spacing for "ideal" newspaper.

ANALYZING POEMS from Egyptian and Babylonian eras. World Lit enthusiasts gain insight into subject matter from Mr. Larry Wray's presentation of ancient cultures.

LEARNING THE DIFFERENCE between gerunds and participles. English I students listen to Mrs. Ethyl Dredge gives examples of sentence use.

Gladiators Evaluate Diplomatic Relations

OFFICIALLY OPENING semester studies. Sid Smith enthusiastically accepts world history book from Mr. Jim Shilling.

PURCHASING STOCK in economics class. Mr. Joe Goodnight and students analyze results of investments.

Checking stock quotations, gathering weekly newsclippings, giving oral reports, and writing term papers were all requirements for Economics classes. Second semester Economics purchased stock. Watching the rise and fall of investments, they had the option to keep or sell stock at any time. Projects stressed student involvements and contributed to increased interest in a non-elective course.

Students in United States History researched presidential administrations, giving oral reports with regard to United States diplomacy. Contemporary history discussed current world problems and politics, basing studies on works in the field of international relations. Reading John W. Fairbanks' The United States in China, Far Eastern history enthusiasts analyzed problems in Asia as they relate to historical development of nationalism among the Asian peoples.

Crafty Dramatists Construct Stage Settings

Widening the horizon on their dramatic interests, stage craft and drama classes attended to the complicated processes of stage setting, flat construction, make-up, and other techniques of management for the three play productions given this year. The Fall play titled Captain Applejack, was a Broadway comedy and fantasy which enthralled both young and old. Producing the One-Acts required hard work and lots of integrity, but with the students willingness to help and earn Thespian points, directing and setting-up the stage was done in a week's time. The three One-Acts themed Around the World, with plays taking place in England, France, and the United States. Death Takes a Holiday, Spring production, mixed romance with mystery.

Providing every performer with a program to match his abilities, the instrumental music department offered participation in cadet and concert bands.

Marching band received trophies for performances at Riverview Park in Chicago, and Concert band and orchestra participated in the NISBOVA contest in Merrillville, returning with second-place honors. Stage band earned an "excellent" rating at the Indiana State Fair.

Eligible for the John Phillip Sousa award were seniors Dave Flood, Sherri Gyure, Marc Horn, Annette Shea and Dathy Sluzewski. Competing for orchestra honors were Sue Klockow, Annette Shea, Sally Stenholm and Joyce Vestal. Band honors were sought by Karen Clower, Janice Miller and John Bissbee. Seniors John Bisbee and Marc Horn were Marching band drum majors.

Individual honors were achieved by senior Dave Flood, who won a $500 scholarship to Tanglewood and junior Bob Blessing who received a scholarship for the Congress of Strings.

Concerts included a pre-contest concert with the combined efforts of orchestra and band; the fall concert presented by the orchestra; and the Christmas concert performed by the band.

The sum of all individual medals won totalled 220, resulting from competition in the district contest at Highland, and from the state contest at Butler U.

Concert Choir Merits First Place Honors

MUSIC THEORIST, Dave Flood and Mr. Thomas Clark, instructor, test theories of progressive harmony.

The Gavitt Choral Department directed by Mr. Thomas Clark, advented the concert season with a fall program of serious music. Concert choir re-enacted 'Twas the Night Before Christmas and Girl's Choir a nursery character toyland. Spring brought a condensation of famous long-run hits. Betty Adams and Mike Sanders portrayed Tony and Maria in Concert Choir's rendition of West Side Story. Settings of Oklahoma, Sound of Music, and My Fair Lady completed the musical program of hits.

At State contest both Concert and Girl's Choirs received a 1st place in sightreading and voice tone. Individual merit was gained by senior enteries at State Solo Contest.

Basics Help Develop Skill for Higher Math

To meet the widely varying demands of a highly diversified student body, mathematics department offered many courses that combined to provide versatile programs of study.

General math students learned basics in arithmetic, algebra, and geometry, then set to work arranging budgets and determining finances.

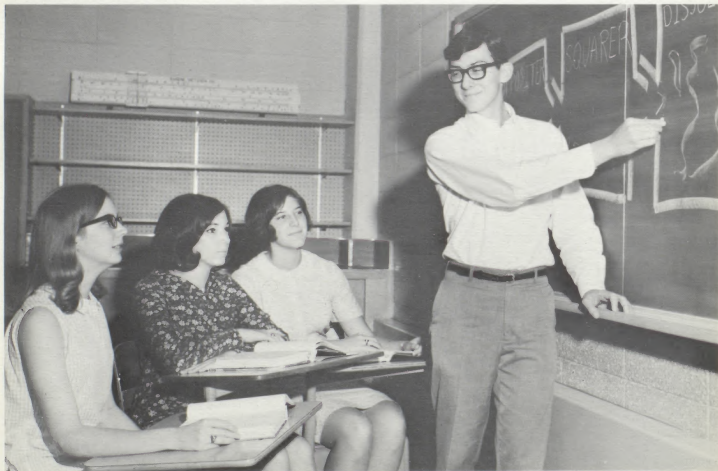

Many Glads took a program consisting of algebra, geometry, algebra-trigonometry, and math analysis. The correlated agenda used the insight gained in previous courses to prove theorems and formulas in succeeding years.

Business math courses gave future clerical workers an opportunity to learn how to perform basic mathematical operations quickly without the aid of machines—a necessary skill even in today's automated business world.

UICSM continued its novel "new math" approach. Students who took all four years were studying college-level calculus and math induction by graduation.

UICSM 5 mathematicians Linda Stringham, Alana Lundgren, and Janice Miller observe Roger Baker tracing 7 through various "machines". Teacher Mr. Lee Mann finds students grasp complex ideas more quickly through use of imaginary machines, mythical cities, and even a special planet, Glox.

PROVING EUCLID'S Theorem Pat Goldner and Dave Huneryager draw perpendiculars from hipoletetese to established congruent angles.

Skills Ready Students for Business World

Acquired skills, techniques, and daily exercises aided students partaking in the Business courses offered at Gavit. Classes included Typing, Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Office Machines and Transcription for Business Majors as well as Consumer Economics, General Business and Business Law for those interested in the fundamentals of the business world.

Those taking business courses found themselves learning new ways for advancement to better their skills and techniques in order to prepare for a career or education.

Field trips were made by business classes to Marshall Field and Company and the Federal Reserves in Chicago for observation of actual business procedures.

IMPROVING accuracy Sherry Miller practices basic drills in Typing I. Keyboard technique is developed in the basic course.

AMATEUR salesmen Linda Raksanyi and Ron Allen demonstrate the proper approach of selling auto accessories in sales class.

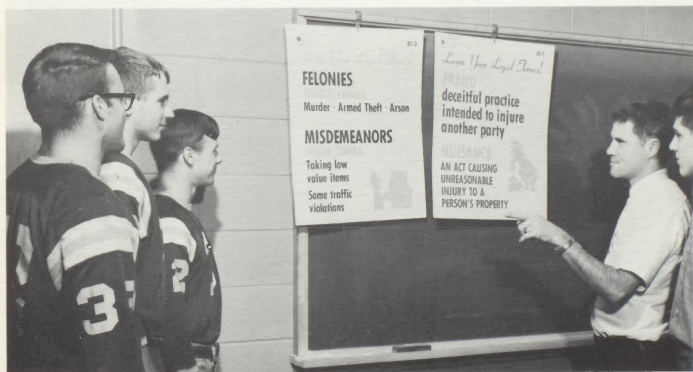

SENIOR STUDENT Jane Rokosz transfers tabulated data for machine computation during office machines. The advanced class is offered to students who first complete basic business courses.

FOLLOWING AN interpretation of legal terminology, Mr. Earl Freuhling quizzes students in business law class.

Shops Aid Students in On-the-Job Training

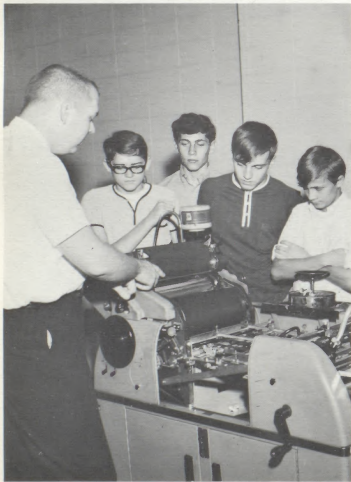

Vocational training programs again offered "shop" students opportunities to develop skills necessary to employment in the construction, printing, and electrical industries, as well as those skills rewarding and useful in daily home life.

Graphics arts classes learned use of the offset photo camera and skills at typesetting. The symbol of "The Gladiator Press" became a familiar one throughout the school as advanced printing classes took on many jobs for students, faculty and administration. Carpenters of tomorrow developed background in elementary facets of wood working in Wood shops. Projects gradually became more difficult and beautiful, ranging from napkin holders to major items of furniture.

Work in metal shop varied also, including products for both home and industry. Similarly, problems in electric shop dealt with finding short circuits at home as well as mending the wiring of complex machinery.

Added to the industrial education department was the Plastics and Ceramics shop. Workers made use of various plastics, specializing with engraving, fiber glassing and plastic foam. Projects included construction of duck decoys and various household products.

INTRICACIES of operating the offset printing press are explained by Mr. Richard Clausen to group of novice printers.

HOLDING WOODEN MOLD. Charles Danner assists Tom White as he removes a hardened plastic foam floating duck decoy from its casing.

Homemakers Merit in Domestic Capacities

NOVICE BAKER. Sharon Michalson, demonstrates her technique of rolling a perfect pie crust in foods III.

Future homemakers tasted the basics of home arts and then delved into the more advanced projects.

Foods I students learned basic cooking terms and the preparation of nourishing breakfasts, while Foods II students were taught how to prepare nutritious luncheons. Advanced students demonstrated culinary abilities by concocting dinners for home and formal occasions.

Home Nursing instruction included fundamentals of first-aid and proper care of the sick in the home.

Charts, films, and a field trip to Purdue Calumet Campus highlighted the Home Management course. Students learned to manage a household budget and to utilize bargaining sense when shopping for home furnishings.

Projects for scissor-wielding first semester Clothing students included an A-line skirt, blouse and dress or jumper. Clothing II pupils continued into more difficult projects including a dress with a hip or waist seam, a blouse with sleeves and a skirt with two or more pleats. Advanced Clothing III and IV students undertook construction of a suit, coat, semi-formal dress and a garment for someone other than themselves.

THE FUNDAMENTALS of table etiquette are practiced in foods I class as Peggy Forsythe, Susan Kinella, Debbie Haywood and Candy

TRAINED FINGERS fashion beads, sequins and bows into decorative Christmas balls, when home economic minded girls work unitedly.

Artistry Stresses Varieties of Creativity

WEIDING SISSORS. Nancy Smith and Donna Rominger create decorations for the Christmas Concert.

The elements of design guided students through their first semester of art. Knowledge of line, shape, color, volume, movement and texture increased as pupils experimented with different methods of drawing and painting. Clay, wood, plaster and linoleum provided the media for the artistic endeavors of second semester students.

Variety and choice were the by-words of students in Art Projects. Pupils were free to select a project which would develop their artistic abilities as well as suit their interest. All art students were given the opportunity to constructively use their talents, making scenery and props for choral concerts.

Art History, now a two-semester course, continued the exploration into the relationship of historical events to art forms. Students visited Chinatown and the Art Institute during a field trip to Chicago.

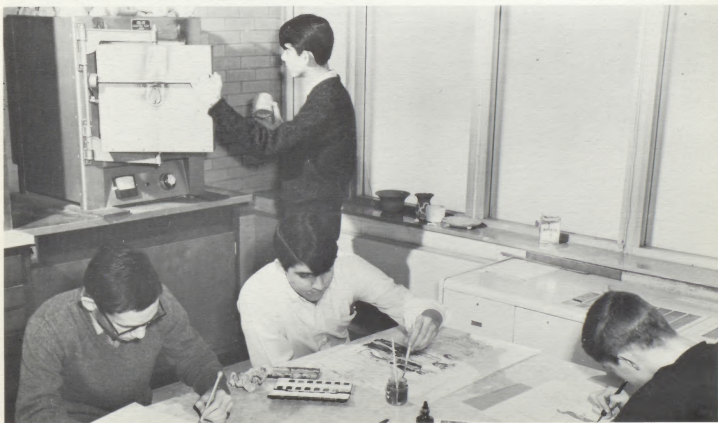

STUDENTS' ATTENTION is focused upon Art History teacher, Mrs. Beulah Seckinger, as she explains the artistic qualities in paintings.

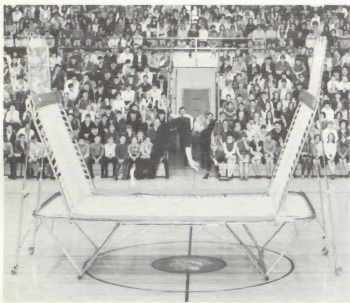

MANIPULATING clay into pottery. Diane Saltanovitz and Peggy Boettcher express themselves in Art Projects III.

G.A.A. OFFICERS—Shirley Burdeau and Lourie Lipsig host ping pong tournament to finalists Debbie Casper and Pat Esgate.

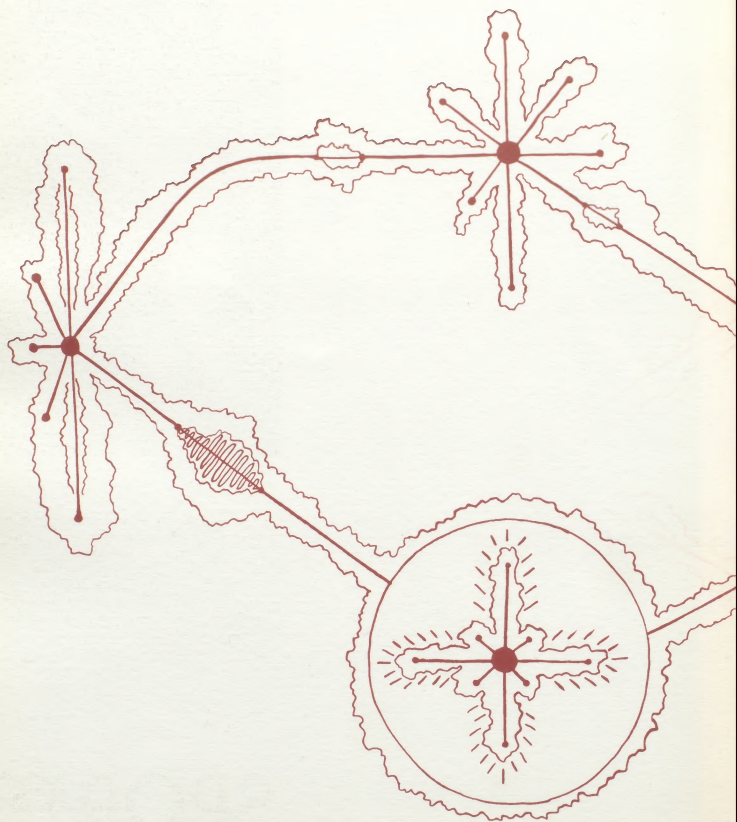

A gymnastic show was the high point of the '68 school physical education plan for physically fit teens. Tumbling and trampoline techniques demonstrated were denoting the skill and perfection which was required. New women's parallel bar was acquired, as well as a giant and mini tramp, and twelve new ping-pong tables. Shuffel board was introduced as an indoor sport and tennis as an invigorating outdoor game. Volleyball, field hockey, and table tennis constituted intramural class competition with eventual team or individual winners.

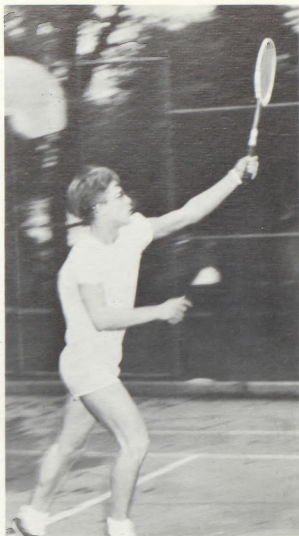

Team work as well as single accomplishments were emphasized throughout the curriculum for boys' physical education classes. Assisted by varsity wrestlers, underclassmen strive to attained a degree of speed and knowledge of wrestling holds for future advancement on the wrestling squad. The boys P.E. also combined soccer, football, handball, volleyball, tumbling, softball and track for a well-balanced program in gymnastics and field events.

NW Conference, Honors, Spirit Team Effort

UNSUCCESSFUL attempt is made by halfback Tom McKay to reach a descending pass from the quarterback.

Completing their last season in the Northwest Conference, varsity gridders compiled a record of five wins, four losses, and one tie. The season was highlighted by a homecoming victory over rival Hammond Clark and a win over eighth ranked East Chicago Washington. Linebacker Dennis Bond, center Mike Merrick, and guard Gene Sojka gained Tri City All Star Honors while Sojka also received honorable mention on Indiana's all-state team. Mr. John Quinn became new backfield coach for the team. He had previously coached at neighboring Bishop Noll and Thornton Fractional North.

Varsity Matmen Capture NWC Title

Gladiator matmen started right where they stopped last season, compiling a dual meet record of thirteen wins and no losses. The team earned their third straight Northwest Conference title nipping runner-up Gary Roosevelt by one point. In the process they also took first place in the Northwest Conference Inter Division Tournament, and a fifth place finish in the state of Indiana. Standouts at the tourney were Dennis Bond (180 lb), first; Jack Degnan (133 lb), first; Don Marlowe (Heavyweight), second; and Dan Foster (154 lb), second.

Dennis Bond became Gavit's first state champion as he finished the season with a perfect slate of twenty-one wins and no losses. For three years, his record was sixty-seven wins and three losses. Bond ripped thru two highly regarded, undefeated wrestlers in the state finals, pinning Bill Coleman of Indianapolis Shortridge in 1:45 for the championship.

A core of returning varsity lettermen for Coaches Smith and Flores are Alan Webb, Lance Johnson, Ed Turbyfill, Jack Degnan and Dan Foster.

The GHS reserve team finished the campaign with a perfect record of twelve wins and no losses. Freshmen ended their season with a record of four wins and no losses plus first place in the Freshmen-Sophomore Invitational Tournament. Perfect records by underclassmen prove that fine wrestlers will replace the leaving senior members of the varsity.

Gavit varsity roundballers posted a disappointing record of four wins and seventeen losses, though rarely out of contention in any game. Fans always anticipated a fourth quarter surge in which the Glads overcame deficits, usually fifteen points or more, only to fall short in the closing moments. In sectional competition, the Glads were defeated by Munster, a team they had previously lost to by only four points in the last game of their season.

Despite an unimpressive record, there were several highlights this year. The Gavit five scored the first varsity basketball victories over Hammond High and Gary Andrean in our school's history. Senior Rick Biancardi, selected to the Tri-City all-star team, total 536 points for an average of 25.5. He finished second in Calumet Region scoring, losing out to Bootsy White of Hammond Tech by only ten points. However, in the Northwest Conference action, Biancardi topped White by a total of sixteen points.

Junior starter Jim Hines and brother Don and Jeff DeArmond return to give a solid base for the 1969 team.

B-Ballers Aspire To Gain Varsity Positions

Gavit junior varsity roundballers completed the 67-68 season with a record of eight wins and eleven losses. The team fell into a tailspin after winning its initial two outings, losing five games in a row. The team showed promise however, as it won four of its last six outings.

Freshman B-ballers, led by Coach John Quinn for the first time, finished the campaign with an overall record of four wins and thirteen losses. Guard Raymond Kmak led the team with his exceptional play and high scoring ability.

Racketmen Serve First Rounds of Season

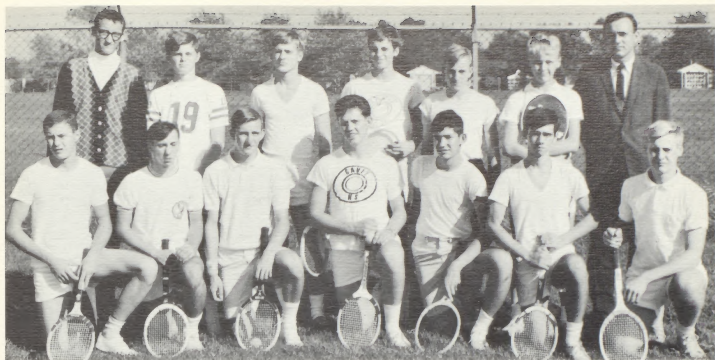

Gavit's first tennis team, under the guidance of Coach Joe Goodnight, completed their season with a record of seven wins and five losses. First defeats proved valuable experience as the Glads won four of their last five matches. Competing in the sectional tournament were Reed Hayne and Bruce Hayne, singles, Jim Baker and John Bisbee, doubles, and Tom Kmak and Bob Blessing, doubles. Reed Hayne gained a semi-final position before being defeated in the tourney.

The team was organized in Spring as Mr. Goodnight received permission from Earl Thompson, athletic director. Students attained positions at tryouts, resulting in the formation of a schedule for the following school year. Many returning Lettermen will strengthen the team as only four of the teammates are graduating seniors.

Gavit baseballers, coached by Norm Banas and Paul Brush, anticipate the new '68 season. During the previous season, the team lived up to their rating of a conference contender, compiling a record of fourteen wins, five losses, and two ties. This excellent record gave the school and the team it's first Northwest Conference baseball Championship. G.H.S. diamond men won six games in a row, knocking chief rivals Whiting and E.C. Washington out of the conference race. With the pitching of Jim Federoff and Tom White and the batting power of Jack Degnan and Jim Hines, the Gladiators are again rated as contenders for the championship.

G.H.S. turfers, led by returnees Mark Nagdeman, Mike Cannon, Jim Hickman, and Bill Gay, defend their Hammond City Championship during the '68 season. Coach Joe Goodnight's golfers are rated as top contenders for the Northwest Conference title, a race in which they finished second last season.

Noble Futurians Brave Agonizing Conflicts

In Search of New Horizons themed the 1968 Futura under the guidance of Sue Courtney, Editor-in-Chief. The cover, designed by student artists Dan Speelman and Linda Hansen, encompassed the theme with the illustration of the DNA experimentation of scientific research. A special memorial section of five pages was dedicated to deceased principal, Mr. Lewis F. Witham. Boasting a total of two hundred twenty-four pages, the Futura sales totalled 1000 copies.

Besides new equipment consisting of pica and proportion rulers and scale-o-graph, the staff initiated a number of eager new workers. With the help of two-year veterans, noble Futurians braved the conflicts of radical scheduling, long term illness of advisor, Miss Carol Ann Socks, and print shop controversies to ready the 1968 Futura for publication.

On April 22, the '67 Futura was placed in the Honors Display at the Northern Indiana Journalism Seminar at Valparaiso University. The book also received First Place certificates from the National Scholastic Press Association and the Detroit Scholastic Press Association.

Spirited Juniors Win Trophy; Plan Prom

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS—J. Fornari (treasurer), C. Howat (president), T. Linnemier (vice president), P. Shanley (secretary).

Early college preparations, winning the class float trophy of Football Homecoming, and sponsoring the prom, were all a part of Juniors' active year.

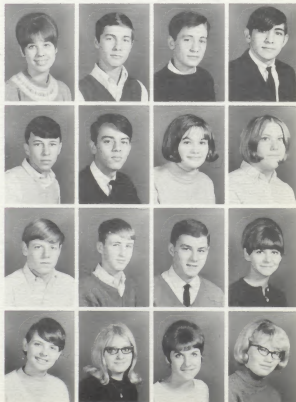

The fall semester workmanship and spirit led Juniors to win the class division trophy for best Homecoming float. As the year progressed, Juniors began a series of various college preparatory exams and participated in college night.

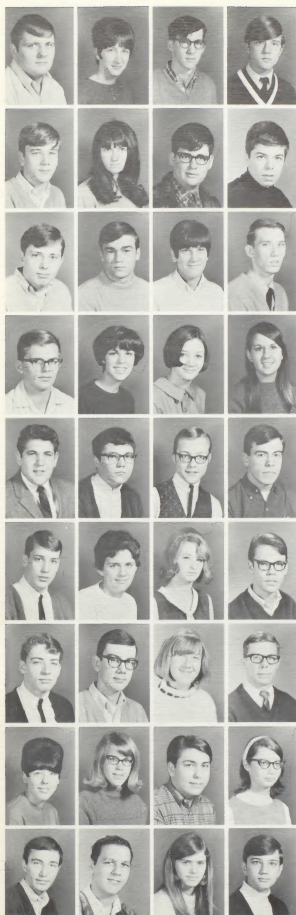

The highlight of the Junior year was the May 17 prom, A Midsummer Night's Dream, conducted at the Sherwood Club.

Elected officers for Class of '69 were Chip Howat, president; Tom Linnemier, vice-president; Joyce Fornari, treasurer; and Pat Shanley, secretary. Miss Mary Jo McMorro and Mr. Frank Gradisher sponsored the class.

Sophomores Enjoy New Financial Security

Class of 1970 spent 1967-68 enjoying the benefits of hard work from its successful candy sale of the previous year. Prom committee chairman were appointed and began planning a year ahead of time under the supervision of prom chairman, Lynn Sandor.

Soph social activities included a December caroling party and a Dunes outing scheduled in May. During the spring of '68, Sophomores with 17 Credits ordered class rings.

Leading the sophomores were Ron Kohut, president; Julie Klappowski, vice-president; Lynn Sandor, secretary; and Joel Hochman, treasurer. Miss Valerie Goluch and Mr. Michael Kobe sponsored the class.

Freshmen Activities Bolster Class Funds

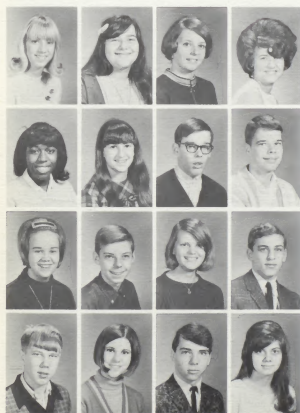

CLASS OFFICERS—Ken Orze (vice president), Sue Cheek (secretary), Mrs. Phyllis Prater (sponsor), Chris Doleczycki (treasurer), Mr. Ken Wysocki (sponsor), Walter Kuchalski (president).

A candy sale highlighted Freshmen activities. At the completion of the sale, the Freshmen class sponsored a school-wide sock hop. Enthusiastic freshmen who sold 12 bags of candy were admitted to the hop free of charge. The class accumulated $1500 from the sales.

Mothers of the freshmen raised $94 for class funds by participating in a cookie sampling. The funds were paid to the class by the company who had provided the cookies.

Freshmen used voting machines to elect Walter Kuchalski, president; Ken Orze, vice-president; Sue Cheek, treasurer; and Chris Doleczycki, secretary.

New Modifications Augment Administration

PRINCIPAL—Mr. William Sippel.

During the 1967-68 school year many changes in administration took place. Mr. William Sippel, former assistant principal of Gavit, was appointed to the position of principal. Mr. Sippel attended Northwestern University where he earned his Bachelor of Science Degree. He earned a Masters of Science and a Masters of Education Degree at the University of Illinois and is now working toward his Doctor of Education Degree at the same University. Before coming to Gavit, he taught at Washington Junior High School and at Hammond High summer school.

Mr. Donald Moretton was appointed assistant principal by the Hammond School Board. He assumed his duties on March 1. Formerly he was assistant principal of Hammond High School. He also taught a business course at the same school.

With the help of a teaching force numbering 112 and an administrative staff of 5, the module system and other administrative procedures were evaluated. Gavit, being a pilot school, initiated the program of Para-Professionals. The four women and faculty advisor, Mrs. Mary Concialdi, tutored Middle School students in reading.

High School is a waste of time . . .

. . . unless you find a job that turns you on and makes good use of your education. Inland Steel wants only people who want to use everything they've learned in high school--and strongly desire to grow personally and in their chosen field.

Inland's future growth depends on the creativity and productivity of its people. If you want a really challenging opportunity to contribute--with the rewards and responsibilities that go with it--Inland wants to talk to you.

We need action-seeking graduates for opportunities in clerical . . . production . . . technical . . . and craft apprenticeship areas.

Think it over. If you have high aspirations and a good high school record, take time to find out about a career with us.
